The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall expect to go to New York the first of the week to meet President and Mrs. Wilson upon their arrival there. Practically all the members of the Cabinet, with their wives, are expected to go there to meet the Presidential party. Secretary Daniels has arranged for the members of the President's official family to go aboard the battleship Pennsylvania, flagship of the Atlantic fleet, which is to meet the Presidential ship outside New York harbor and escort her to port.

Of widespread interest is the wedding of Col. Robert E. Lee and Mrs. Mary Middleton Pinckney, widow of Gustavus M. Pinckney, who were married yesterday at noon, the ceremony taking place in Epiphany Church. The Rev. Samuel A. Wallis, of the Theological Seminary at Alexandria, a lifelong friend of the bridegroom's family, officiated.

The bride, who was understood to be given in marriage by Cotesworth Pinckney of Charleston, S. C. She wore a simple gown of white Georgette crepe beaded in milk white beads and griddled with white satin. It was made with a round neck, full elbow sleeves, and a straight tulle bow over a moderately full underskirt. Her hat of white Georgette was trimmed with a flat band of ostrich feathers, and she carried a shower bouquet of lavender orchids and white sweet peas.

Dr. Bolling Lee of New York, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Thomas Love served as usher. The altar vases were filled with clusters of pink and white gladioli. The church was otherwise unadorned save for the great flags of the allies, which are hung from the beams of the arched roof. Only a small company of guests attended the ceremony and the relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom were seated in the choir stalls within the chancel rail.

After the wedding there was an informal breakfast at Baumgardner's for the bride party and a few other guests and later Colonel and Mrs. Lee started for their honeymoon. Eventually they expect to make their home at Ravensworth.

Colonel Lee is the son of the late General W. H. F. Lee of Fairfax county, Virginia, and the grandson and namesake of the famous Confederate general. With his mother, Mrs. W. H. F. Lee, he makes his home at Ravensworth, their ancestral home in Virginia. His bride's home is in Charleston, S. C., but she has for several seasons spent the winter in Washington.

LANSING DUE HERE MIDDLE OF JULY.

Mrs. John W. Foster is remaining at her Washington residence much later than is her custom, waiting the return of her son-in-law and daughter.

CAPT. MURRAY A. COBB NOW IN SWITZERLAND.

Capt. Murray A. Cobb, of Washington, who has been seriously ill as a result of military service in France, is improving. Word to that effect has been sent here by Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morton, commanding the Twenty-ninth Division, to which Capt. Cobb was attached as aide-de-camp to the commanding general.

The message from Gen. Morton explained that Capt. Cobb was desperately ill in Base Hospital 27 at Tours, France, and the physicians thought his opportunities for recovery would be increased by removing him to Switzerland. That recommendation was followed. Capt. Cobb stood the trip well, and the latest word is that he is improving.

Mrs. Cobb, abroad, having gone there to help nurse Capt. Cobb some time ago.

SAFETY FIRST DURING HOT DAYS FOR OUR BABIES

MRS. MAX WEST.

Child Care Expert of U. S. Children's Bureau.

Summer spells danger for babies, especially in a climate such as Washington. Last summer the baby death roll here was one baby every six hours.

In order to aid mothers in every way possible through the coming weeks of midsummer heat, The Herald has secured Mrs. Max West, Baby-Care Expert of the U. S. Children's Bureau to write a series of articles on how to care for young babies during hot weather. Besides being recognized as the greatest authority on the care of infants in America, Mrs. West is the mother of five grown children. She is practical in her theories as well as scientific, in that her training has included personal experience as well as medical and hospital study.

Mrs. West's articles are simply and understandingly written. They will be of intense and vital interest to all mothers or persons having children in their care. Read the first one on "How to Feed Baby in Summer" on this page tomorrow.

THE PLEATED SKIRT RETURNS

Many pleated skirts are being shown in this season's dresses, in the accordion pleated, knife pleated and box pleated effects, or the tunics may be pleated and the underskirt plain or vice versa, or, again as in some of the French frocks, pleatings may be placed over pleatings.

Virginia Lee's Personal Answers To Herald Readers' Questions

The glorious fourth is at hand. Doubtless there will be numerous parties on this day, especially since the fireworks celebrations are almost an unknown now-a-days. I wonder if you realize just how many very attractive and appropriate favors and decorations the shops have alid in store for you?

Several stores have the snapper favors which furnish such a variety of paper caps at the kiddies' party, when finally Johnny or Betty is nerved to the point of popping his or her particular one. A box of ten costs 75 cents.

I saw two varieties of nut dishes in the shield shape. One was a little satin box and the other bore an open paper dish in the center of the shield. These were priced to cents each.

Some large firecracker favors looked real dangerous. I pulled on the fuse with the most prickly thrill, and found a nice, empty space for red, white and blue candies. Price six cents.

You have seen the little roly poly dolls that always pop up as soon as you knock them over, similar to those one store is showing silken flags stuck in little red bombs and they prove that ours is the "flag that will never go down." Price 10 cents.

Among other things that I saw were the small silk flags to hoist on the ice cream at 10 cents a dozen, cardboard hats with tissue paper tops at five cents, and decorative flags and place cards of all kinds. Telephone your inquiries concerning these Fourth of July favors for an immediate reply.

Bathing Suit.

Dear Miss Lee: Will you please suggest some type of bathing suit for a girl who is rather large? I would also appreciate suggestions as to material and color.—Billie.

I would suggest a black suit of satin lined with white braid or piping. Have it made as a short one-piece dress with a belt. Bloomers or tights should be worn underneath.

Sound.

Dear Miss Lee: How many miles can thunder and cannon be heard?—G. E. H.

All thunder is not of the same intensity, and of course it is impossible to give a definite answer to such a question. The same applies to cannon. Naturally the size of the cannon would affect the sound. It may aid you to know that under ordinary conditions at 22 degrees Fahrenheit, sound will travel 1,090 feet per second. It is said that some cannon reports can be heard at a distance of twenty miles, but of course this depends upon where the person is standing, as the sound wave might pass over his head at that point.

Another Birthday Verse.

Since preparing the birthday verse the other day, I have received another one from a reader which she learned sixty years ago. It follows:

"Born on Monday fair of face,
Born on Tuesday full of grace,
Born on Wednesday sour and sad,
Born on Thursday merry and glad,
Born on Friday loving and giving,
Born on Saturday work hard for a living,
Born on Sunday never want for bread."

Wants to Practice Law.

Dear Miss Lee: I am an attorney at law in another State and a member of the bar, having been admitted to and practiced law in the courts of that State several years. Can you tell me what requirements I must meet to be able to practice law in Washington?—E. W.

Communicate with H. Prescott Gately, 340 Indiana avenue, president of the Bar Association.

Inquiry.

Dear Miss Lee: Is it true that Mary Pickford is married to Douglas Fairbanks?—Inquisitive.

No. Mary Pickford is Mrs. Owen Moore.

TAMING MY HUSBAND

By KATHLEEN FOX
(Copyright, 1919, The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

I did not know how I should make husband and I had no plan, yet I was determined to do so.

I undressed—with one hand. The other was quite helpless. When I had finished, I left the room, with the lights still burning, and went to my father's bedroom where I slept with the door locked and a chair against the knob.

I did not see Crittenden again for three days. I did not get up the next morning until he had left the house. And then I called Ellen to bring my breakfast upstairs. When Crittenden called at 11 o'clock I told Ellen to say I was in bed.

Crittenden came home that afternoon at the usual time. I heard him enter the house and come upstairs.

"Bees!" he called, "open the door." "Where are you in at the door?" I called. "I go out at the window." "I don't want to see you."

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1919.
(Copyright, 1919, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Jupiter rules strongly for good during the early hours of this day, according to astrology. Saturn and Mercury are in benefic aspect. In the evening Mars has sinister sway.

Up to early afternoon the rule is believed to be especially profitable for commercial transactions and for plans for big business.

All the signs seem to indicate much prosperity and great activity in manufacturing and in mercantile pursuits of all kinds.

Those who read the stars foretell five full years to be followed by leaner years and for this reason they counsel thrift.

It should be a lucky rule for farmers and for real estate dealers. Gain is assured from the earth. There is a sign believed to affect the scale of wages, and this is interpreted to show that there will be no decrease for sometime to come.

The stars supposed to affect the economic affairs of humanity are in aspects making for continued high prices. Leather is subject to a sway that augurs greater costs to those who wear it.

Venus is fairly inspiring during this configuration. Love affairs that remain on the level of medium happiness are well directed, but all who are romantic will find discontent. Jewels, gloves and perfumes, as well as the clothing that women wear, are likely to bring great profit today.

Persons whose birthdate it is should guard against accidents. There may be law suits. Money and business affairs are well directed. Children born on this day may be rash and hasty, but generous and kind. These subjects of Cancer may meet with many changes in life.

It was the same thing the next day and the next. On both days he knocked at my door and asked me to admit him. Both times I told him I did not want to see him.

On the fourth day I would use my arm so I called Marjorie Boyd and suggested that we ride that afternoon.

Marjorie came, presently cantering up on her new horse, and I mounted Pegasus. We talked excitedly of the wonderful horses we rode and traversed the inviting bridle paths without a care.

At length she looked at her watch. "Bees," she exclaimed, "we'd better go back; it's nearly 5 o'clock and you are so crazy about Crittenden, that you always have to break your neck to be there when he comes."

"It doesn't matter today," I replied; "let's ride on."

MAKES STOUT FIGURES LOOK MORE SLENDER

Gingham made up in a variety of models is one of this season's most popular summer wash materials for the handy gown. Perhaps the variations of color combinations shown in plaids and checks account for this widespread favoritism.

The model featured above is made with a long overskirt that adds inches to the short girl's height and makes the stout girl appear more slender. Several of Washington's department stores are featuring this model, as well as other attractive designs made up in blue and black and pink and brown plaid ginghams.

Because of the high cost of maple syrup, many economical housekeepers do not use this sweetening to flavor puddings and cakes. In many cases the flavor will go farther, if the dessert is unsweetened and a maple sauce is served with it.
